

14 Ways to Dress Your Pout This Season

By Klaudia Tirico / September 3, 2015

Let's talk about lips, baby. Whether you're a big makeup wearer or not, we can guarantee you have at least one lippie in your arsenal. Some people (ahem, us) have more than others, but who's counting? With that said, we are full supporters of treating ourselves to a few new lip paints for a new season. Who's with us?

From lightly tinted balms to full-blown matte bullets, these new lip colors boast beautiful, kissable pouts with a single swipe. Good luck choosing just one.

If you're looking for the longest-wearing lip color ever, look no further than Kismet's liquid lipsticks. After trying out the brand's new Succulent Collection, we can attest that these babies do not budge at all. Each one is made with a highly pigmented, long-lasting formula that's packed with vitamins C and E for a healthy and beautiful pout. So go ahead, smooch your S.O. all you want.
